My Brother, My Brother

Sher Singh's little brother lay in the hut with a pain in his stomach that was getting worse. Sher Singh himself was only about twelve years old, small and cheerful, a child of the jungle. His brother was several years younger. "I will wring out rags in boiling water and lay them on his stomach," said his mother. She did not weep. She had lived through everything over and over again. The steaming rags did not help. After a while Sher Singh's mother said, "He must be carried to the hospital at Kalaghat." Then, Sher Singh thought that his brother was dying. All jungle people somehow, think that the hospital is the last resort of the doomed.
